Charges U.S. State Department Cancels Palestine Policy

British policy in Palestine and "middle level" State Department officials were criticized sharply by Bartley C. Crum, former member of the Anglo-American Palestine Committee, in Washington.

He charged that certain officials in the department's Middle Eastern Division had been scuttling a definite American policy favoring additional Jewish immigration for a period of more than twenty years.

In this connection he named Loy Henderson, chief of the division, saying his resignation from the department might be "salutary."

Mr. Crum declared that high British officials had acknowledged that they were far more concerned about the expansion of Russian influence in the Middle East than about the fate of Jewish displaced persons. For this reason, he said, the British had no intention of complying with the recommendation of the Anglo-American Committee for immediate admission of 100,000 Jews into Palestine.

Mr. Crum addressed the American Christian Committee for Palestine at a luncheon presided over by Oscar Chapman, Under Secretary of the Interior. John W. Snyder, Secretary of the Treasury, sat at the speakers' table, but he left before Mr. Crum opened his blast at British policy and his charges of sabotage of American principles in the State Department.

Mr. Chapman said that several of the notable guests had pleaded other engagements, which caused their departure, but their presence was interpreted as indicating Administration sympathy with Mr. Crum's viewpoint.

Mr. Crum said he had discussed the Palestine problem with Mr. [illegible]. On the strength of this [illegible] that the President [illegible] to the so-called [illegible] plan (Anglo-American committee plan) to [illegible] Palestine into Jewish and Arab provinces, and to "bribe" the Arabs with $250,000,000 in American loans for neighboring states and $50,000,000 to improve the lot of the Arabs in Palestine.

The San Francisco lawyer declared that he had come around to the conclusion advanced at the Anglo-American Committee hearings by Albert Einstein, world-famous Jewish refugee scientist. Mr. Crum now believes, he said, that there is an unspoken understanding between the "imperialist" Labor government of Britain and the Arab leaders to exploit Palestine to their mutual advantage without regard for the welfare of the Jews.

He accused the British of "shadowing" the members of the Committee during their on-the-spot investigations in Palestine, and of opening their mail. Even communications from the President were routed through the British Consulate, he said, and apparently were examined by British agents before delivery.

Mr. Crum said that British Foreign Office officials argued that unless the Arabs are placated they will make common cause with the Russians. He ridiculed the idea that Russia could establish an understanding with "King Farouk of Egypt, lolling in his private night club," and other Arab chieftains who enjoy hereditary wealth and privilege.

The speaker expressed the opinion that King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia, King Farouk of Egypt and other Arab leaders were as likely to join Premier Stalin as Premier Stalin was likely to ask Secretary John W. Snyder for an income tax reduction.

Mr. Crum said that British representatives also told him that because many Jewish refugees had been behind the Russian lines they feared these Jews would take Communism to Palestine. The Jews of Palestine, as he observed them, said Mr. Crum, wanted only to preserve their community interests and individual rights.

Assailing the British proposal for partitioning Palestine, Mr. Crum declared it would place the Jews in an "elongated ghetto".

Asked to cite an instance of State Department meddling with Palestine policy, he said that negotiations by several Jewish agencies looking toward the rescue of 4,000 Jews in Bulgaria during the war [illegible] the Nazi Minister, [illegible] the Nazi Anti-El Komintern Office in Berlin, used the State Department note in his exchanges with German and Bulgarian officials. The Bulgarians received a German command to send the children for "more active control" to Poland, where they were gassed. Evidence of all this, said Mr. Crum, is in the records of the trial of German war criminals at Nuernberg.

Mr. Crum said that after the investigation of the Palestine situation in April, his Committee was shown secret State Department files. These, he said, contained notes cleared through the "middle level" of the State Department after every Presidential announcement.

To Discuss Jewish State Or Nothing

The Jews will insist upon discussion of a plan envisioning Jewish statehood as one of three conditions for participation by them in British-sponsored conferences on Palestine, it was disclosed in Jerusalem with publication of part of a letter from Dr. Chaim Weizmann to the British Colonial Secretary, G. H. Hall.

Dr. Weizmann, who is head of the World Zionist Organization, said in the letter, written on August 16, that representatives of the Jewish Agency will not participate in discussions on any federation plans as proposed by the British.

In addition to the plan for Jewish statehood, the two other conditions posed by Dr. Weizmann were that the Jewish Agency have full freedom to designate its own delegates, including any who may be held at present by the British, and that the agency, in consultation with the British, issue all invitations for membership in a Jewish delegation, with the understanding that it would include "representatives of other important bodies and organizations." Presumably this referred to non-Zionist organizations.

Mrs. Goldie Myerson, Jewish labor leader, has been named temporary head of the Jewish Agency's political department. Moshe Shertok, department director, is now detained in a British detention camp. Mrs. Myerson, a native of Russia, went to the United States when she was eight years old, studied at a Milwaukee Teachers' Seminary, joined the Zionist movement and went to Palestine in 1921.

Zionist leaders will boycott the London Conference on Palestine [illegible] Commissioner," Mrs. Myerson declared in an interview.

She had just returned from the Paris Conference of the Executive, where she was the proxy member of Moshe Shertok, head of the Executive political department, who is in the Latrun detention camp.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin must understand, Mrs. Myerson said, "that Jews in Palestine are united and prepared to fight on and are organized to live independent of British rule."

She declared that Jews rejected the partition or federation plan under the British High Commissioner and believed it unnecessary for a United Nations trusteeship. Zionists would agree to a transition period of "one or two years", she added.

The new state must give Jews control of immigration and treaty

Jewish Agency Change Is in View

Negotiations are proceeding in Paris for the admission of non-Zionist groups to the executive of the Jewish Agency for Palestine. One of the groups is the American Jewish Committee. This group, whose members include many prominent American Jews never associated with Zionism, has recently taken a great interest in closer co-operation among various Jewish groups.

It played a prominent part in formulating the joint proposals for the expanded humans rights clauses for the peace treaties recently submitted on behalf of eleven Jewish organizations to the peace conference.

It was also reported that Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver had submitted his resignation from the executive. He has been one of the bitterest critics of Britain's policy. He opposed the American loan to Britain and influenced a number of Jewish groups in the United States to protest the agreement except on condition that Britain modified her Palestine policy.

Recently he has sharply disagreed with other members of the executive, notably Dr. Nathan Goldmann, over the line that the executive should follow on Britain's Palestine proposals. His resignation would be regarded as a new sign of a growing "moderate" influence in the Agency's top ranks.

Protest Likens British Rule To Nazis'

British policy in Palestine and Central Europe is "parallel" with that followed by Nazi Germany, a three-man delegation charged in New York, in an interview with British Vice-Consul John B. Robey.

The hour-long session at the British Consulate, 25 Broadway, was the first of two protests sponsored by the American Jewish Labor Council, the American Jewish Congress, the Downtown Dry Goods Jobbers Association and the Wholesale and Warehouse Workers Union, Local 65, CIO.

Following their meeting with Mr. Robey, the delegation hurried uptown to Broadway and Spring Street where they and other speakers addressed 2,000 persons at an outdoor rally.

The interview in the Consulate, scene of a bomb scare and of mass picketing on several occasions in recent months, was one of a number of "similar" sessions lately, Mr. Robey said. It was the first, however, to which reporters and photographers were admitted, he added.

The principal spokesman for the delegation was William Levner, an organizer for the Labor Council, which he said represented 100,000 Jewish workers and 2,000,000 non-Jewish members of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

"British actions in Palestine and wherever else a substantial number of Jewish people happen to be, indicate a deadly parallel with the practices of the Hitlerite Government of Nazi Germany," Mr. Levner alleged in a prepared statement.

Elaborating on the two-page typewritten document that Mr. Robey [illegible] to forward to his "[illegible]"

Visit Palestine, See No Arab-Jew Hatred

Mrs. Rose Jacobs, of New York, former president of Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization, returned from a five-month stay in Palestine with the belief that the Arabs and Jews had no deep hatred between them and "could be brought together."

The former Zionist leader described the recent bombings in Palestine as a "shock to Jews, Arabs and British alike." She asserted that "violence is not a basic Jewish philosophy." She believed the Arabs and Jews could work together, explaining: "I didn't see any signs of deep hatred between them. I believe they could be brought together."

While in the Holy Land, Mrs. Jacobs said she made a survey for an agricultural and industrial village for the settlement of refugees and veterans of the Palestine Army. A tentative site has been chosen near Haifa, she said, where the settlers will process Jordan almonds with American machinery. The project, to be known as "Freedom Village", is being sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cohen, of 88 Central Park West, New York.

Full-scale warfare in Palestine is "imminent", with a large bloc of the Arab population ready to ally itself with its former enemies, the Jews, against the British, Harry Louis Selden, co-chairman of the American League for a Free Palestine, said in New York.

Mr. Selden, who returned after a month's trip to Palestine, said he found many Arabs working in the Jewish underground, and excellent co-operation between the two factions. The Arabs have learned, he said, that they "can do better" with the Jews than with the British or with their former effendi masters.

Mr. Selden said Great Britain had failed in its "campaign of incitement" to arouse the Arabs against the Jews, as they were spurred into attacking Jewish settlements in 1929 and 1936. Many Arabs, he said, are not sympathetic to the Jewish cause, but are nevertheless impressed by and afraid of their strength. An impression is prevalent among Arabs he said, that the Jewish underground has an atomic bomb.

Einstein Foundation To Set Up Non-Sectarian University Of Top Rank Next Year

Albert Einstein has given his support and his name to a foundation which plans to establish at Waltham Mass., next year a new Jewish-sponsored university of top rank, open to students and faculty members without regard to race, creed or religious beliefs.

The foundation, known as the Albert Einstein Foundation for Higher Learning, Inc., made its first public announcement through its president, Dr. Israel Goldstein, who is also president of the Jewish Conciliation Board of America, and a leader in Jewish affairs. It has already acquired a 110-acre campus and a group of buildings from Middlesex University, which will go out of existence within a year.

The name of the new university has not been decided yet, but a committee is being formed to select a chancellor, and plans are underway to open it in October, 1947, with courses in the liberal arts and sciences. While the foundation has taken over the physical plant and the charter of Middlesex University, the educational project itself is to be wholly divorced from Middlesex University.

Dr. Goldstein said that Professor Einstein, in accepting sponsorship of the foundation, wrote:

"I am convinced that such an institution will attract our best young people, and not less our young scientists and learned men in all fields. It would satisfy a real need. I would do anything in my power to help in the creation and guidance of such an institution. It would always be near to my heart."

Dr. Goldstein said the foundation planned "a truly American university which will be a worthwhile Jewish contribution to higher learning and professional training at a time when there is a mounting need for additional educational facilities," and he said, "our standards will be of the highest." He quoted from its charter the following:

"Believing that the standard of American living which on its material side is held up as an example to the rest of the world should also be reflected in a high standard of education which should be made available to all who seek it regardless of race, color and creed; aware of the mounting hunger of American youth for higher learning both as an end in itself and as a means of preparation for the professions; mindful that there are not enough facilities for higher learning and professional training to meet the needs therefor; deeply conscious both of the Hebraic tradition of Torah looking upon culture as a birthright, and of the American ideal of an educated democracy; and dedicated to the proposition that in the post-war world the American people entering upon an unprecedented position of world leadership should lead not only in

The QUALITY you LIKE

YES...BUT WHAT IS IT WORTH?

Little you care how much silver is contained in the 50c piece you take into a store. What you want to know is what it will buy.

Well, that depends very much on yourself, ourselves, and the millions of others like us. If free and careless spending brings inflation, your 50c piece will buy less and less as prices rise . . . how much less, no one can say.

You can guard against inflation . . . and, if you are a No. 1 citizen, you will.

How? . . . By conservation in your personal finances . . .

Here are five ways you can fight inflation:

- Hold on to your Victory Bonds
- Buy only those goods which are in fair supply and save your money for the day when goods now in short supply will be readily available
- Avoid black market purchases
- Keep up your insurance
- Build up your savings account

This means wise spending and wise saving.

This is conservation—the first requisite for personal security—the first attribute of good citizenship.

This is why we say:

If You Are a No.1 Citizen You will look after No. 1...

Refugees At Cyprus Get Kosher Butcher

"The Government of Cyprus and military authorities are alike anxious that you should be as comfortable as possible during your temporary stay in Cyprus," said a message read to refugees deported from Palestine, from the Cyprus Commissioner. "For you will understand that you will remain here only until arrangements can be made for your ultimate future."

The refugees were sorted into six communities according to family groups. Each community elected a leader, who will be their voice in camp affairs.

A kosher butcher was ordered for the camp. The immigrants prepared themselves the British Army rations allowed each person. Children under 9 received special rations.

Reports said additional shiploads of unauthorized immigrants were scheduled to arrive, and that accommodations were being prepared for 10,000 persons.

The large tents house fifteen persons and the small tents eight. No restrictions were placed on housing, with the families permitted to live together and the groupings of others decided upon by themselves, officials said.

on Palestine immigration since President Wilson's day, all assuring the Arabs that the policy would not be carried out.

He demanded that the United States end these secret messages from State Department career men, and urged that the U.S. exert pressure on Britain to admit upward of 150,000 displaced Jews to Palestine this year.

The United States should oppose a British request to the United Nations for sole trusteeship rights in Palestine, he said, and should oppose the admission of the new state of Trans-Jordan—"a British Charlie McCarthy"—to the U.N.

Dean Acheson, Acting Secretary of State, vigorously defended State Department officials accused of having defeated American policy on Jewish immigration to Palestine through secret notes to Arab leaders.

Mr. Crum, reached by telephone in San Francisco, listened to a summary of Mr. Acheson's statements, and then declared: "It seems to me that the State Department is doing a lot of shadow-boxing on this. The clearest answer they can make is to publish the files I saw, containing secret cables to Arab rulers in the Middle East."

Mr. Crum said he had copied down the numbers of messages which showed that State Department officials made promises to the Arabs contradictory to Administration policy supporting the Jews.

He will make these cable numbers available, Mr. Crum said, if the Senate Foreign Relations Committee would like to see them. Meanwhile, he challenged the State Department itself to publish them.

ROBERT GORDON WINS
Dow Award

There was confusion on the pier which juts out from Britannia into the Ottawa River. A young boy, unable to swim, had fallen into the river and was being carried away by the current. The icy May waters were no obstacle to Robert Gordon, watching from the pier, fully clothed and without even pausing to remove his sun glasses, Gordon swam to the floundering boy. For a time there was a violent struggle. Finally, Gordon managed to get the frantic boy to climb on his back. Then, with the boy's arms tightly around his neck, he started to swim back to the pier. The strong current and undertow were almost too much for the rescuer . . . but he eventually reached the pier where they were both helped ashore.

To Robert Gordon, of Ottawa, we are proud to present The Dow Award.

THE DOW AWARD is a citation for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Victory Bond. Winners are selected by The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Montreal daily newspapers.

AUGUST 30, 1946 VOL. XXVIII. No. 48

New UNRRA Director Ran Migratory Camps

Meyer Cohen, who was named Acting Director General of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration in Germany, replacing British Lieut. Gen. Sir Frederick Morgan, laid the groundwork for the hard task of closing out the displaced persons camps in Germany by three years of directing west coast migratory camps set up to solve a problem nationally tagged as "the Okies."

From 1940 through 1943, Mr. Cohen served as Assistant Regional Director of the Farm Security Administration in charge of migratory camps in California, Arizona and Nevada. At the end of that period, he also set up and administered the Mexican labor program, under which camps were established to bring in agricultural workers from Mexico.

In January, 1944, he entered UNRRA in the policy-making part of the DP program, went to London in August to take charge of forging UNRRA missions to the liberated countries, and last spring went to Austria to set up the displaced persons program there. He returned to Washington as director of UNRRA displaced persons and repatriation operations.

For some time, his wife reported, Mr. Cohen has been tremendously concerned lest the more than 850,000 displaced persons remaining in European camps be "left hanging between two agencies," with UNRRA about to end and the International Refugee Organization still in the draft stage [illegible] action by the United [illegible]

[illegible] organization could [illegible] "because it is a human problem and has to be taken care of." A resolution was passed at the recent UNRRA Council meeting in Geneva that UNRRA displaced persons operations would be continued until June 30, 1947, or until the money ran out, or until IRO was set up, financed and ready to assume full responsibility.

Mr. Cohen is in his late thirties. He is a graduate of Yale Law School, with a Ph. D. in international relations. Prior to entering Government service he was instructor at the School of Social Studies in San Francisco.

General Morgan, whom he will succeed, is regarded at UNRRA headquarters in Washington as an able administrator who in his UNRRA post became a political stormy petrel. A British Army officer, trained at Woolwich, veteran of two wars, credited with being author of the accepted European invasion plan, and Deputy Chief of Staff under General Eisenhower, Sir Frederick is said to have taken over UNRRA DP operations in Germany when they were in a state of administrative chaos and both improved organization and built up morale.

He is credited, too, with being first to call attention to the fact that 1946 had arrived as a decisive year for the DP problem and nothing had been done to solve it. It was the press conference he called for that purpose on January 2 in which he made the informal remark about an organized movement to channel Polish Jews into Palestine that set off a tempest of discussion in this country. He then refused to resign and made a trip to the U.S. to confer with former Director General Herbert H. Lehman.

making. Mrs. Myerson said. If Britain felt that Naval, Air and Army bases in the new state were necessary to protect the Empire she could seek them through a treaty of friendship and cooperation, she said.

"You must realize we have a deep feeling of friendship for Britain," she said.

Arab leaders in Cairo and Jerusalem predicted failure of British-sponsored conferences next month on Palestine and declared that the break-down would give a legal basis for taking the problem to the United Nations.

In Tel Aviv, a Jewish leader said that Zionists would boycott the discussion unless the talks were based on establishing a Jewish national state.

Britain has invited Arabs and Jews to confer with British officials, and a Government spokesman said the meetings were scheduled to start some time "in the first ten days of September."

In Jerusalem Jamel el Husseini, deputy chairman of the Palestine Arab Executive, said that "in London we hope only to reach an insoluble conflict between Great Britain and Arab states who are members of the United Nations so that there will be a legal basis for presenting our case to the United Nations General Assembly." He said he saw no hope of agreement.

Arab spokesmen in Cairo expressed a similar view. One said the conference would fail because Britain would present a scheme to partition Palestine—unacceptable to the Arabs—and that Arabs would insist on an end to Jewish immigration and granting of independence to Palestine. Britain, he added, would not agree to the Arab demands.

technical skills and material resources, but also in intellectual and spiritual endowments—this Foundation for Higher Learning is established."

The foundation will be supported by Jewish organizations and individuals in the United States, and will begin this fall a campaign to raise $6,000,000. It has already acquired a physical plant estimated to be worth $2,000,000, according to the New York Herald Tribune.

The buildings which will be available to it at the opening next year include a large Norman Gothic main building, with nine component units, a library, and several others suitable for classrooms and administration offices. A survey is now being made to determine dormitory requirements. The site stands on a hill overlooking a rolling and wooded landscape about eight miles from Boston.

Officers of the foundation, besides Dr. Goldstein, are Dr. Alexander M. Dushkin, executive vice-president of the Jewish Education Commitee of New York, who serves as secretary, and Julius Silver, vice president of the Polaroid Corporation of America, who is treasurer.

Mr. Robey, who maintained a calm survey of the view from his office window during most of the recital, was challenged at one point for smiling faintly.

Interrupting his charge that Britain was financing anti-Semitism in Poland by continuing to support Gen. Wladyslaw Anders, Mr. Levner remarked, "I saw your face change when I said that."

The dark-haired young British offical countered by expressing disbelief of the allegation and then observed that he was doing his duty by listening to the protest and asked that the statement be continued.

Others at the meeting were Benjamin Kopf, representing the jobbers, and Albert Berakof of Local 65, Police Capt. Patrick J. Kirley of the Charles Street Station was present as an observer and a police detail remained outside the building during the interview.

in every room in the house!

• The present shortage of linoleum didn't stop this homeowner from planning. Now she can hardly wait to see how smartly her carpets and rugs stand out against the rich all-over tones of Dominion Battleship Linoleum... to point with pride to the use she has made of linoleum in other rooms.

She can hardly wait, either, to feel the grateful foot-comfort of resilient linoleum wherever she walks... the quick-as-a-wink way it wipes clean... the soft glow of its waxed surface, which will resist wear for years and years.

Yes—there are so many reasons why linoleum is the logical, the ideal choice as the "base flooring" throughout your home.

Ask your architect or linoleum contractor for the whole story. He has lots of ideas and suggestions too. While linoleum is still in short supply, it is not too early to plan.
